President's Message

Dear Shir Ami members and friends,

Jewish philanthropy is a marvelous thing. The mitzvah of tzedakah, and a tradition that emphasizes repair of the world, spur Jews to share even modest good fortune with those around us. Jews give to support Jewish community organizations, to assist people in need, to support the arts, to build hospitals and schools, to encourage political advocacy and activism, and much more. We give of our time and skills as well as of our material resources. We teach and promote the value of tzedakah as a lifelong practice and a core expression of what it means to be a Jew and a human being.

When a terrible disaster such as the January 12 Haiti earthquake strikes, the Jewish community mobilizes to help. Two examples:

- The Union for Reform Judaism (www.urj.org/relief): In one week following the quake, the Reform Movement raised more than $500,000 for Haiti disaster relief efforts. Based on communication with partner relief organizations, allocations will be made to support emergency relief efforts including rescue work, emergency medical care, temporary shelter and food and water distribution. In the coming weeks, additional Union allocations will fund longer-term recovery efforts.
- American Jewish World Service (www.ajws.org/haiti): AJWS has created the Haiti Earthquake Relief Fund to send immediate emergency aid to communities affected by this disaster. Particular focus is being placed on aiding populations in the crisis zone that have not already been targeted for large-scale relief, such as poor and rural areas outside Port-au-Prince. AJWS's long-standing partnerships in the region have enabled AJWS to send funding directly to grantees in hard-hit areas on the ground who have the knowledge and capacity to spend the money effectively where it is most immediately needed.

Jewish tradition teaches that the spiritual benefit of doing tzedakah is so great that the giver benefits even more than the recipient. The word tzedakah comes from the word tzedek, which means righteous. According to Kabbalah (Jewish mysticism), the only difference between the two words is the Hebrew letter "hey," which represents the Divine name. Kabbalists explain that tzedakah is a partnership between the righteous and God, and acts of tzedakah are permeated with God's goodness.

Wishing you the blessings of a life rich with acts of righteousness,

Ruth

With each passing day, estimates for the death toll in Haiti continue to increase after the tragic events that shook the island country on January 12, 2010. Sources suggest that somewhere between 150,000-200,000 victims have perished because of this tragedy thus far. If you are anything like me, it is hard not to ask the question 'why'?

Why did this terrible natural disaster have to occur? Some people may answer this question with a scientific explanation (e.g., the location of the fault line, or how the buildings were not up to earthquake ready standards, etc.). No doubt, they are right. But the question raises a much more spiritual dilemma for me. How is it that so many innocent people had to die, and that so many survivors are left with so much grief in the face of a natural disaster?

I don't know about you, but sometimes, I have an easier time understanding human-made disasters rather than natural ones. It is hard for me to wrap my head around the fact that God's glorious creation, the one that we praise every day and every Shabbat through our prayers and psalms, could also be the source of so much destruction.

In Jewish thought, there is something known as "Deuteronomistic Theology." In essence, the rationale is that if the Israelites behave, God will reward them, and if they do not behave God will punish them. Oftentimes, this punishment includes kicking the Israelites out of the Promised Land, or bringing famine or drought upon the land. In other words, the punishment is often seen as a physical reaction by God towards the Israelites. Throughout much of Jewish history, this has been one of the primary beliefs held by traditional Jews.

The thinkers of the Reform Movement, beginning in 19th century Germany, started to re-evaluate their relationship to this theology. In fact, because they did not feel comfortable with this type of reward and punishment theology, the Reform Movement removed the second paragraph of the Shema from our prayer books.

As the Reform Movement has started to re-incorporate more Hebrew and more traditional prayers back into our siddurim, the second paragraph of the Shema became a hot topic of debate during the publication of the new siddur, Mishkan T'filah. There were countless debates about whether or not the Reform Movement should reinsert the following lines from the Torah into our prayer books: "Take care not to be lured away to serve other gods and bow to them. For the LORD's anger will flare up against you, and He will shut up the skies so that there will be no rain and the ground will not yield its produce; and you will soon perish from the good land that the LORD is assigning to you” (Duet. 11:16-17)

Ultimately, the Classical Reform sentiment won out and the lines remain absent from our new prayer book. In the end, I believe this was a wise decision and one that makes me appreciate our ability of Reform Jews to align our beliefs with our words and our actions. Moreover, I am amazed by the fact that in ancient times, the Rabbis were also struggling with this same tension. The question for them was whether or not God really rewards us, or punishes us, through nature.

Thus, the rabbis ask: “Suppose a man stole a measure of wheat and went and sowed it in the ground. It would surely be right (din hu) that the wheat should not grow. But the world pursues its natural course (olam k'minhago noheg). Further, supposing a man has intercourse with his neighbor's wife, it would surely be right (din hu) that she should not conceive. But the world pursues its natural course (olam k'minhago noheg)” (Babylonian Talmud, Avodah Zarah 54b).

While some fundamentalists might argue otherwise, I believe that Judaism teaches us that God does not intervene in the laws of nature based on the morality or immorality of our actions. For me, this rabbinic teaching redeems the Jews from living a life in which we are waiting to be “rewarded” or “punished” for our deeds. We are not a religion of fear, but a religion of action and healing.

I hope that in the coming months that all of us will continue donating our time, money and prayers to the community in Haiti. May God protect us and keep us.

Sincerely,
Rabbi Suzy

We'd like to hear from you

Hebrew Union College – Jewish Institute of Religion (HUC-JIR) in Los Angeles is the graduate school that our student rabbis attend. The school, in the interests of helping our students learn and grow while at their student pulpits, has asked us to provide regular, written feedback to the students and their advisors. That means that they want to hear from us after EVERY visit by each of the student rabbis. Diana Zankowsky has taken on the job of Lay Advisor and she will collect and convey that feedback. Please communicate both positive and corrective feedback to Diana, (at dzankowsky@aol.com) no later than Tuesday after a rabbi's visit. Thank you in advance for contributing to our student rabbis' educations.

School Families,

This year at Shir Ami the teachers of the various age groups have each been teaching to the same theme on any given week. According to the input we have been receiving from the teachers this plan is working quite well. It has been very interesting for the teachers to compare notes regarding the similarities and differences in lessons each week. We've had puppet shows about Joseph and his fancy coat, soup cooking in the kitchen as Jacob traded soup to Esau for his birthright, family crest making as we studied the twelve tribes of Israel, as well as edible tower's of Babel constructed of different materials.

This month we have a couple of special Friday services that I very much hope will be well attended. We will be having our second children's service of the year. These services are short, start early (6 p.m.) and are geared specifically to young children. They provide a great opportunity for our youngsters to experience a Shabbat service, and the rabbinic interns put in a lot of effort to make them great. Our gifted Rabbi Suzy will be leading us this time, and it is an event to look forward to. A potluck follows for all which provides a lovely chance for our families of young children to spend some quality time with members they might not run into on a regular basis.

Also this month Rabbi Matt will be here to lead us in a fun Friday night service celebrating the holiday of Purim. I am lead to understand that Matt has something so special planned he has not had his hair cut since November in preparation for a special appearance. Hmmm, most curious, and certainly not to be missed. This service starts early at 7 p.m. to make it amenable to kids. Our preschoolers through 5th graders will be participating in the service. Costumes are encouraged and welcomed. Noise makers will be provided or feel free to bring your own. Looking forward to spending time with you in February.

As Always,

Jodi

Adult Education

In February 2010, Congregation Shir Ami will have several different adult education offerings.

Introduction to Judaism: We have expanded our on-going monthly class for adults interested in conversion. We are now welcoming any member of our community interested in learning more about Judaism. We will continue to meet on Saturdays. Our next meeting will be on February 6th from 1 pm to 3 pm. At this class, we will continue to look at our liturgy in the Mishkan T'fillah and we will look ahead to Purim, studying the rituals and the Megillah. Contact Diana Zankowsky, dzankowsky@aol.com for more information.

“What does GOD have to do with it? Jewish Perspectives on Life, Death and the Afterlife” Rabbi Suzy Stone's class will meet on February 13th from 3pm to 5pm, concluding with Havdalah. The topic will be Jewish views on medical ethics in life.

Adult Hebrew: Judy Ganz continues to teach the weekly “Learning Hebrew through Prayer” class, for those who already have basic literacy skills. Please contact Judy at jbganz@aol.com if you are interested in joining.

Mark your calendar: On Saturday, March 13 at 3 pm, Rabbi Matt will lead a one-time workshop for anyone interested in learning how to lead a Jewish worship service. All are welcome.

Movies: On February 27th, Shir Ami's Israeli Movie night brings to you Shalosh Imahot (3 Mothers), a multigenerational saga detailing the redemptive journey of three beautiful triplets. It was nominated for nine Israeli Academy Awards (won 2) and offers an emotional exploration of memory, loyalty, betrayal, and self-sacrifice among family. When one sibling falls ill and longs to come clean about a long-buried family secret, she enlists the aid of another's daughter in producing a video that will finally bring the family's long-gestating issues out into the open. Needless to say this heartfelt confession prompts tempers to flare and reopens old wounds, sending all three sisters on a soul searching journey into the past in hopes of coming to terms with sixty-years of self-imposed silence. This wonderful film will follow Havdalah, which will start at 7:00 pm.

Sisterhood:

Last month we brought in the new month of Sh'vat with a really fun game of Jewish Trivia. The evening was hosted by Marlene Lamnin, with ideas from Sara Lamnin, whom we missed due to the flu. The evening started out with a meal of delicious tamales. Then, we had a reading for the month of Sh'vat as well as a prayer, candle lighting, and wishing each other a "Chodesh Tov" - a good month.

Then we played what turned into "Stump the Sisterhood" Among the categories we could pick from for Jewish Trivia were Sabbath, Torah, holidays and celebrations, Tallit, and more. As we went around the table and picked a category, we were amazed at how much there is to know about Judaism. We welcomed new member Angie Ross who joined us that night and who was the winner of the game. She said, "Just when you think you know all there is to know about Judaism - there is even more!"

If we got an answer right we got a chocolate candy. There were lots of laughs, competition, and learning going on. The evening ended with prizes and more sweets for dessert. We had a great time.

Also last month Sisterhood sponsored a healing gathering for Sharon Golembo because of the passing of her sister, Darlene (Devi) Golembo. It was a beautiful evening with the combination of men and women from Shir Ami and Sharon's sister's community, the Brahama Kumaries. With music, readings, prayers, a vegetarian potluck, and sharing, we celebrated Darlene's life and were a comfort to Sharon.

Next month we will be meeting for Rosh Chodesh bringing in the new month of Adar on Tuesday, February 16 at 7:00. We will meet at the home of Sharon Golembo. Car pooling is Adar is the month of Purim so we will be baking hamontashen. Please watch for an email with directions and a reminder for this event.

Three spots remain for the women's retreat, March 5-7. See the flier in this Bulletin or contact Ruth Hartman, president@congshirami.org.

What's Nu?

- Thanks—for their hard work on the very fun Chanukah party to Jodi Blum and Barb Haber. Thanks to Rabbi Matt for his awesome drumming accompaniment, and to all the parents who helped with cooking, cleaning, etc. Special thanks to Fran Avni, who was able to come in and do a wonderful performance with only a few days' notice.

- Mazel Tov—to Kaitlin Beckman and her family on Kaitlin’s becoming Bat Mitzvah on January 16. We are all very proud of you!!!
- Thanks to Rabbi Suzy and Rev. Arlene Nehring, for leading a stimulating and affirming interfaith Shabbat service. Thanks also to the members of Eden United Church of Christ and the South Hayward Parish who attended.
- Young People on the Go—
 - Four Shir Ami young people attended the NFTY/Camp Newman West Coast Party event over MLK weekend—Spencer and Sophia Blum, Emma Silver, and Hana Hartman.
 - In addition, Adam Blum, Kaitlin Beckman, Sarah Keil, Gabby Keil, and Solomon Katsman attended the Youth Shabbaton at Camp Newman. Adam has this to report, “The weekend Shabbaton at Camp Newman was a very wonderful experience. It was a great way to make new friends. After I came back from the Shabbaton I got in contact with other kids that I met over the weekend and now we’re good friends. At the Shabbaton you get a mix of religious activities and fun. We had Shabbat services and a party. You also do skits with different groups and new people. In the afternoon you get to choose an elective between sports and arts. At the end of the day you get to spend time with your cabin mates and play calm games. Since your cabin mates are around the same age as you are you can always have fun. I honestly can recommend any 3rd to 7th grader to go to the Shabbaton. Me being a seventh grader I am sad I can’t go next year.”
- Condolences—our heartfelt condolences to Sharon Golembo on the loss of her sister, Darlene. Our sympathies as well to the Schneider/Gilchriese family on the passing of Marilyn’s mother, Clara Schneider.

MLK CELEBRATION 2010

"Whatever affects one directly, affects all indirectly. I can never be what I ought to be until you are what you ought to be. This is the interrelated structure of reality."
--Martin Luther King

Shir Ami Members, Daryl, Fred, Diana, Rose, Bill, and Sara joined about 40 other community members at the annual Martin Luther King Day rally and peace march. Participants of all ages braved the rainy January weather to listen to a youth choir and multiple quotes from Dr. King. Shir Ami was one of six congregations participating in the morning of friendship and solidarity.

HAITI RELIEF EFFORTS

From the Union for Reform Judaism: A 7.0 earthquake devastated Haiti on January 12, 2010. Millions are homeless and have lost loved ones. The epicenter was near the capital of Port-au-Prince. The Reform Jewish community is asked to continue its long history of generosity when natural disasters hit communities around the world. Your generosity at this critical time enables recovery efforts, bringing healing and hope to those whose lives have been affected. Donations to the Union for Reform Judaism Haiti Relief Fund can be made online:
<http://urj.org/socialaction/issues/relief/haiti/>

or by check (note: Haiti Relief in the memo section) to:
Union for Reform Judaism
Attention: Development
633 Third Avenue, 7th Floor
New York, NY 10017

The Union for Reform Judaism retains no overhead expenses for disaster relief donations, other than direct costs such as credit card fees.

Charitable donations for Haiti Relief made January 11-March 1, 2010 are eligible for a 2009 or a 2010 charitable tax deduction. This new provision applies to cash contributions made by those who itemize their deductions. For additional details, go to the fact sheet on the IRS website:

BLANKETS AND BUS PASSES

The Hayward Community Action Network continues its work to build sustainable solutions with individuals who are homeless in Hayward and Castro Valley. Shampoos, soaps, sleeping bags, and socks are needed to help people through this winter. Also helpful are plates, cups, and food for the community meal program. Donations can be brought to Shir Ami for pick up. "We have learned much over the last two years since the program started," said one volunteer. "We are making progress and there is still much to do." For more information or to be part of the solutions, visit <http://haywardcan.weebly.com> or call Program Director, Sara Lamnin (510) 432-7703.

Eating disorders are challenging under any circumstances, but the centrality of food in Jewish culture can compound the situation. In the memoir Hungry: A Mother and Daughter Fight Anorexia, Sheila Himmel and her daughter Lisa write about Lisa's process of recovery from anorexia and bulimia with honesty and humor. Hear the authors discuss the book at P'tach Libeynu's special program, open to the community.
